

Five pages of style, shopping & hot topics to make your weekend just a little bit more fun

Stella

Ultimate Discovery Kit, £125, Romilly Wilde
Travelling in style? Make sure your skin does too, with this luxurious cleanse, serum and face oil kit – with face tool and cult fragrance included.
romillywilde.com

Leather phone case, £210, Elaow
Go hands-free this summer – especially helpful when you're wearing floaty frocks with no pockets.
harveynichols.com

Crawford sunglasses, £150, Finlay Boots silhouette, 2022 cool.
finlayandsons.com

Cotton dress, £129, Mint Velvet
This dress will take you anywhere and has a flattering waist tie and high smocked neckline to draw the eye upwards.
mintvelvet.com

Aimone plate, £23, Mario Luca Glisoti
This bold melamine plate has gone to the top of our fish – sorry, wish list.
aimone.com

TELEGRAPH EXTRA
Win a three-night stay at Talhoath House & Spa, Essex. One lucky Telegraph subscriber and a guest are in for three days of pampering at this luxe country house hotel, including three AA-Rosette dining, pool and hot tub access, and four hours of relaxing spa treatments per person.
See telegraph.co.uk/extra-stella

La Piscine napkins, £30, and tablecloth, from £235, Summerhill & Bishop Summerhill & Bishop's latest tableware collection is sure to make a splash.
summerhillandbishop.com from Thursday

George Michael: Freedom Uncut
It's almost six years since the passing of the music icon and now this autobiographical documentary – his final work – is being released as a global cinema event on Wednesday. It's George Michael in his own words – and those of contributors including Elton John and Nick Rodgers – with plenty of classic pop moments in surround sound.
June 22; cinemas nationwide

Body Lotion, £5.50, Nala's Baby
Launching in Boots tomorrow, this British baby skincare range – which also includes a body butter for £6.50 – has no chemicals, no parabens, no animal ingredients, no alcohol... no worries! boots.com

This week we love

Our must-haves and must-sees, from fashion and jewellery to music and theatre

The Big Feastival
Alex James's annual Cotswolds foodie festival is back, with more beats and eats than ever before. Stereophonics, Anne-Marie and The Human League will get you dancing, chefs including Thomasina Miers and James Cochran will be cooking up a storm, and street food stalls galore will have you wondering what to eat next.
Aug 20-22; thebigfeestival.com

Sandals, £169, Rogne Mattilda Handcrafted by artisans in Colombia, these sling-backs are full of Latin flair.
rognemattilda.com

Candlestick, £37, Glaze Me Pretty Handmade by London ceramicist Raquel Acosta, each one of these glazed candlesticks has its own unique finish.
glazemepretty.com

Lip tint, £24, Jones Road
It's sheer, it's hydrating, it's colourful – it's everything you would expect from the brand by Rachel Brown.
jonesroadbeauty.com

Waste fabric pouch, £32, Elizabeth Scarlett Elizabeth Scarlett's ReBirth collection is made from deadstock fabric, redesigned to give it new – super-stylish – life.
elizabethscarlett.co.uk

Gold-vermel earrings, £120, Otiumberg x Hunza G
Two cult British brands: one limited-edition capsule jewellery collection. It's full of twists and turns... otiumberg.com

HOT TICKET: THE SEAGULL
It's the Mother of Dragons, but not as you know her... Emilia Clarke (left) is about to make her West End debut in a new adaptation of Anton Chekhov's The Seagull. Clarke's Game of Thrones co-star Indra Varma also stars in this classic tale of love and loneliness.
Booked! Harold Pinter Theatre, June 20-Sep 10; haroldpintertheatre.co.uk

Home, Before and After, by Regina Spektor
She's been described as this generation's Joni Mitchell, but with her new album – full of piano-driven anthems that are by turns intimate and soaring, groovy and reflective – the US singer-songwriter proves herself this generation's Regina Spektor. Which is a very good thing indeed.
Out Friday

Larry King Monaco Residency
He's come a long way from Kensington... the (albeit) King of A-list London broadcasters has opened his first international salon, in the suitably starry surroundings of the Hôtel de Paris Monte Carlo.
larryking.co.uk